

MEN AS CAREER COACHES

MACC is an intergenerational mentoring program that connects young men to adult role models who are willing to share their goals, pathways, and accomplishments. Our career coaching model encourages the entire community to play a vital role in reaching out to youth to provide them with the necessary information and resources to make informed career decisions.

At the Halton Industry Education Council we are proud of the impact the successful relationships we have built with our community have had on youth over the past 22 years. We also recognize that our community partners' involvement is critical to the success of our programs. By supporting MACC, you will be connecting with the community and helping to create a culture of mentorship.
